Welcome letter

Dear applicant,

Thank you for your interest in applying to become Chair of one of Scotland's colleges. I am currently seeking to appoint Chairs to the boards of Ayrshire College, Fife College, Glasgow Kelvin College and New College Lanarkshire.

Scotland's colleges play a vital role in supporting individuals, employers and communities across the country. They help learners develop the skills, knowledge and confidence needed to succeed, while working closely with industry to meet current and future workforce needs. As the sector navigates a period of significant change, including financial pressures, evolving skills demands and wider public service reform, strong board leadership is more important than ever.

I am looking for individuals who can provide effective leadership to a governing board, foster productive relationships within their region and beyond, and work constructively with their Principal to help deliver positive outcomes for learners, employers and local communities. Experience in the education sector is not essential. Leadership, strategic oversight and experience of guiding organisations through change, whether in the public, private or third sector, are equally valuable.

I strongly believe that boards are most effective when they reflect a broad range of backgrounds, perspectives and experiences. I therefore particularly encourage applications from groups currently under-represented on Scotland's public boards, including women, disabled people, people from minority ethnic communities and younger people.

If you would like to learn more about these opportunities, the college has provided a contact within this information pack, and you are also welcome to attend one of the online information events. I hope you will consider applying.

Yours sincerely,

Alyn Smith MSP

Minister for Innovation, Technology and Tertiary Education

Information about the role

Remuneration	£211 per day (non-pensionable) and reasonable expenses.
Time commitment	It is anticipated that you will devote up to two days per week to the role, up to a maximum of 104 days per year.
Length of appointment term	The appointment will be made for a term of up to four years. This appointment is being made during a period of Public Service Reform in Scotland. During this period, and depending on the implementation of future reforms, appointments may end earlier than anticipated or may be extended, subject to Ministerial decisions and legislative requirements. The successful candidate will, of course, be kept informed of any likely or actual changes to the term length as a result of the changing landscape. Applicants should be aware that this position is held at the discretion of Scottish Ministers and do not constitute a contract of employment. Applicants who have previously served on this public body should refer to the Q&A section on previous service and term limits.
Location of meetings	Board and committee meetings take place at the College's campuses, with some meetings held online. The role involves travel across the College's region, and occasionally beyond.
Disqualifications	A member of the Scottish Parliament cannot also hold a public appointment for public bodies listed in the Schedule to the Scottish Parliament (Disqualification) Order 2025. Former Ministers and senior civil servants (Director General level and above) should ensure they comply with any applicable business appointment rules. Colleges in Scotland are registered charities and the Chair is a charity trustee. The Charities (Regulation and Administration) (Scotland) Act 2023 came into force on 31 August 2025, and the updated automatic disqualification criteria for charity trustees will apply. Should you have any questions about this disqualification section, you can seek advice by emailing the Public Appointments Team, Public.Appointments@gov.scot

About Glasgow Kelvin College

Scotland's colleges give people of all ages the skills, qualifications and confidence to succeed, and work closely with employers, schools, universities and communities. Each college is a registered charity governed by its board, which sets the college's strategic direction and holds the Principal and Executive Team to account. The Chair leads the board and is appointed by Scottish Ministers.

Glasgow Kelvin College, in the north and east of Glasgow, was formed in 2013 through the merger of John Wheatley, Stow and North Glasgow Colleges. It offers a broad range of full-time, part-time, evening and day release courses, and operates three main campuses (Springburn, Easterhouse and the East End) and a community learning network of over 25 centres. It works closely with employers, industry partners and universities so that its curriculum meets local and national workforce needs.

The Board of Management is responsible for the governance, strategic leadership and overall policy direction of the College, and became the governing body of a newly designated regional college from 1 August 2025. The board typically comprises 18 members and meets around five times a year.

The Board seeks an experienced and values-driven leader who can provide strategic direction, inspire confidence among stakeholders, champion excellent governance and support the College in delivering its mission of transforming lives through education.

For more information about the College and its Board, please contact Joanna Campbell, Principal and Chief Executive: JoannaCampbell@glasgowkelvin.ac.uk

Person specification

The Minister for Innovation, Technology and Tertiary Education is looking for a Chair who can lead the board through a period of significant change. The same criteria apply to each of the four college Chair posts being advertised at this time. You do not need to have worked in further education: we want to hear from people with board leadership experience gained in any sector.

The table below sets out the skills, knowledge, experience and attributes that we are seeking and explains how the criteria will be tested. You may have gained your experience through work, by being active in your community, in a voluntary capacity or through your own lived experience. For each criterion, the panel is looking for specific examples: what you did, how you did it, and the outcome and impact of your actions. A general description of your experience will not be enough.

The priority criterion is weighted over the essential criteria, and the candidates who provide the strongest evidence against the priority criterion will be considered most able to fulfil the role. In the event that candidates provide evidence of equal merit against the priority criterion, the panel will then take into account the strength of the evidence presented against the essential criteria in determining the candidate(s) most able to fulfil the role.

You must provide evidence against the priority criterion (Section A) and essential criteria 1, 2 and 3 (Section B) in your application. Essential criteria 4 and 5 will be assessed at interview only. All of the criteria may be explored further at interview.
The priority criterion is not limited to people who have chaired a board. It includes, for example, experience as a Chair, Vice Chair, committee chair or senior independent director; as a chief executive or senior executive who has led a board or senior leadership team; or chairing a partnership, trust or charity board, in any sector.

Criterion	Example indicators	How this will be assessed
A. Priority
1. Board leadership	• Has chaired, or held a leadership role on, a board, committee or governing body (for example as Chair, Vice Chair, committee chair or senior independent director), has led a board or senior leadership team as a chief executive or senior executive, or has chaired a partnership, trust or charity board, in any sector. • Has helped to build a culture, on a board or in a leadership team, in which members contribute their expertise, challenge constructively and reach decisions together. • Has improved how a board, governing body or leadership team works, for example through development, evaluation or succession planning.	This will be assessed at application stage and at interview. In your online application: please demonstrate how you meet this criterion. Your response should be no more than 250 words.
B. Essential
1. Strategic leadership through change	• Has set or shaped the strategic direction of an organisation or major function and seen it through. • Has led or overseen significant change to a business model, finances, services or partnerships in a complex, resource-constrained setting. • Understands the realities of public funding and the stewardship of public money.	This will be assessed at application stage and at interview. In your online application: please demonstrate how you meet this criterion. Your response should be no more than 250 words.
2. Influence and partnership	• Builds and maintains credible relationships with senior leaders across public	This will be assessed at application stage and at interview.

	bodies, employers, education and community partners. • Represents an organisation with credibility, including in a political environment. • Uses partnerships and alliances to achieve shared outcomes.	In your online application: please demonstrate how you meet this criterion. Your response should be no more than 250 words.
3. Understanding of the operating context	• Analyses the economic, skills and public sector reform context in which the college and its region operate. • Understands the needs of learners, employers and communities in the region the college serves, and the role of the college in meeting them. • Applies this understanding to the board's priorities and decisions. (You do not need to live or work in the region.)	This will be assessed at application stage and at interview, including through the exercise. In your online application: please demonstrate how you meet this criterion. Your response should be no more than 250 words.
4. Governance, risk and judgement	• Understands what good governance, accountability and assurance look like in a public or charitable body. • Makes sound, evidence-based judgements on financial sustainability, performance and risk. • Leads a board to clear decisions when the way forward is uncertain.	This will be assessed at interview only, including through the exercise.
5. Working with people	• Builds an inclusive, respectful and cohesive board and develops its collective capability. • Maintains a supportive but appropriately challenging relationship with the Principal.	This will be assessed at interview only.

	• Communicates clearly, listens to diverse views, including those of students and staff, and is committed to the college's values.

Application Advice

The selection panel will not make assumptions – for example from a job title – as to the skills, knowledge, experience and attributes you have gained. The Panel will review the evidence provided and invite to the second and final assessment stage those applicants who most closely meet the criteria being tested at this first stage of assessment. By the end of the selection process, you must have demonstrated that you have met the essential criteria to the satisfaction of the selection panel to be considered for appointment.

You should provide clear and succinct information about yourself and how you meet the criteria that are being tested at this application stage. When being asked to demonstrate knowledge, understanding or experience, you should describe how you gained this, the breadth and depth of this knowledge, understanding or experience and any situations where you have used this.

Please use specific evidence to support your answers that is relevant to the requirements being tested. Draw on evidence from your working and/or personal life, or through your participation with a private, public, voluntary, charity or community organisation. Please note that there are word limits at each of the sections.

Suggested preparation

- Take time to think about each of the criteria and think about the situations you have recently been involved in.
- Think how your actions and experiences led to results that demonstrate the criteria.
- Prepare your answers.

Your evidence

- Please be clear and succinct. You may be asked to expand on your answers at interview.

- Draw on evidence which best demonstrates your skills, knowledge or abilities in that area.

In providing your evidence, it would be helpful if you could explain your personal contribution, what you did and how you did it – use "I" not "we." Give the outcome – what happened? How effective was the result? How influential were your role, actions and interventions? What impact did you have?

Using the STARR method

When providing evidence against the criteria, you may find it helpful to structure your responses using the STARR method. This helps you present clear, concise, and relevant evidence and allows the selection panel to understand your individual contribution and impact.

- Situation – Briefly describe the context or background.
- Task – Explain your specific role or responsibility.
- Action – Describe what you did (use "I", not "we"), including how and why you took those actions.
- Result – Set out the outcome of your actions and what was achieved.
- Reflection – Where appropriate, reflect on what you learned, what you would do differently, or how this experience is relevant to the role of a Non-Executive Public body Member.

Using this approach will help you demonstrate not only what you did, but how you applied your skills, judgement, and values, and the impact of your contribution.

The assessment process

The assessment process will happen as follows:

1. The selection panel will assess all applications against the criteria for appointment (see the person specification). Those who demonstrate evidence that most closely meet the criteria tested at this stage will be shortlisted for interview.
2. The selection panel will interview candidates. The questions will relate directly to the criteria for appointment and will not be shared in advance. The interview will include an exercise. Before your interview you will be given a question about the college you have applied for and 30 minutes to prepare. You will begin the interview with a short presentation to the panel, followed by questions. You do not need to prepare anything in advance. Full details will be sent to shortlisted candidates.

3. The selection panel will also ask questions relevant to the fit and proper person test (see below) which will include questions about the Principles of Public life in Scotland.
4. The selection panel will review the evidence provided and agree on which candidates have most closely met the criteria for selection and should be recommended to the appointing Minister.
5. The appointing Minister will make a decision about whom to appoint based on evidence from the selection panel. The appointing Minister may request to meet with candidates before making a final decision.
6. Appointees will be asked to complete pre-appointment checks which will include a Disclosure Check (there is no charge for this). Appointment is conditional on satisfactory completion of these. This will also include Protection of Vulnerable Groups (PVG) Scheme Membership which is a requirement for this role. Appointees cannot start in the role until this is received.

Guaranteed interviews

This appointment round will provide guaranteed interviews for disabled people who meet the criteria for the role being tested at the application stage. The selection panel will not know which applicants have requested a guaranteed interview until the shortlisting is complete.

Fit and proper person checks

In the context of public appointments, a fit and proper person is someone who is suitable because they meet the requirements of the role, and their past or present activities and behaviour means they are suitable. Tests are built into different stages of the appointment process to ensure that:

- Conduct to date has been compatible with the public appointment
- Membership is not barred by the body's constitution e.g., criminal record or bankruptcy (see disqualifications)
- There are no unmanageable conflicts of interest
- Political activity is declared
- There is agreement to abide by the Principles of Public life in Scotland
- There is confirmation that the time commitment required for the role can be met.

Media checks for candidates invited to interview

The selection panel may consider publicly available information about candidates, including posts on social media platforms. Any findings that the selection panel agree are pertinent to the role or that may call into question suitability for the appointment, credibility of the appointments process or the public body will be discussed with candidates at interview. Consideration of any issues will take place openly and transparently to establish the facts. Candidates will be given an opportunity to respond to any concerns. This information will be handled in line with the Privacy Notice for public appointments.

Gender Representation on Public Body Boards (Scotland) Act 2018
The Gender Representation on Public Body Boards (Scotland) Act 2018 sets a gender representation objective that 50% of non-executive members of public body boards should be women.

Where two or more candidates are assessed as equally qualified for appointment, and at least one candidate is a woman and one is not, section 4(3) of the Act requires the appointing Minister to appoint the woman where this would help the public body achieve, or make progress towards achieving, the gender representation objective*.

Once you apply, the Scottish Government will write to you to collect the required information regarding your sex.

*To note, under section 4(4) of the Act, the appointing Minister may instead appoint a candidate who is not a woman where another characteristic or circumstance appropriately justifies doing so.
